Period for Reply

A SHORTENED STATUTORY PERIOD FOR REPLY IS SET TO EXPIRE 3 MONTH(S) FROM THE MAILING DATE OF THIS COMMUNICATION.

- Extensions of time may be available under the provisions of 37 CFR 1.136(a). In no event, however, may a reply be timely filed after SIX (6) MONTHS from the mailing date of this communication.
- If the period for reply specified above is less than thirty (30) days, a reply within the statutory minimum of thirty (30) days will be considered timely.
- If NO period for reply is specified above, the maximum statutory period will apply and will expire SIX (6) MONTHS from the mailing date of this communication.
- Failure to reply within the set or extended period for reply will, by statute, cause the application to become ABANDONED (35 U.S.C. § 133). Any reply received by the Office later than three months after the mailing date of this communication, even if timely filed, may reduce any earned patent term adjustment. See 37 CFR 1.704(b).

DETAILED ACTION

Claim Rejections - 35 USC § 103

The following is a quotation of 35 U.S.C. 103(a) which forms the basis for all obviousness rejections set forth in this Office action:

(a) A patent may not be obtained though the invention is not identically disclosed or described as set forth in section 102 of this title, if the differences between the subject matter sought to be patented and the prior art are such that the subject matter as a whole would have been obvious at the time the invention was made to a person having ordinary skill in the art to which said subject matter pertains. Patentability shall not be negated by the manner in which the invention was made.

1. Claims 1-15 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) as being unpatentable over Liles et al. (US Patent No. 5,880,731) in view of Skelly (US Patent No. 6,064,383).

Regarding claim 1, Liles discloses an information processing device, comprising: a manager for managing data on feeling expressions of an avatar which correspond to a user's conditions [..Textual messages transmitted to the other participants can indicate what the user is saying or thinking, and alternatively, can indicate a related action or emotional condition of the user; see col. 10, lines 1-32]; a storage area for storing data on image displays of the avatar which correspond to the feeling expressions [..The visual frames portray different views of an avatar to produce a visual impression of an animation of the avatar when rapidly displayed in the sequence. In the script for each gesture, specific visual frames comprising the sequence and time intervals determining a duration for displaying each visual frame of the sequence are indicated.; see col. 3, lines 32-67]; and a display controller for controlling the image displays of the avatars based on the data stored in the storage area [...Each of the avatars that are presented to a user for selection in character selection dialog box 70 corresponds to a different bitmap file. Each of the bitmap files contains a predefined number of frames that represent the avatar in different poses and/or emotional states; see col. 7, lines 43-65]; however, Liles fails to explicitly teach managing data including a plurality of conditions and a plurality of levels associated with each condition wherein each of the feeling expressions are based on at least one of the conditions and one of the levels.

Skelly discloses managing data including a plurality of conditions and a plurality of levels associated with each condition wherein each of the feeling expressions are based on at least one of the conditions and one of the levels (see col. 5, lines 12-44). It would have been obvious to one of an ordinary skill in the art at the time the invention was made to provide managing data including a plurality of conditions and a plurality of levels associated with each condition wherein each of the feeling expressions are based on at least one of the conditions and one of the levels as taught by Skelly to the use of avatar interaction on-line chat session of Liles in order to enable the user to select an emotion for graphical character and intensity of the emotion to be reflected in the appearance of the character by using an input device.

Regarding claim 2, Liles discloses, wherein the avatar exists in a virtual space constructed on a network, and the data on the feeling expressions are set when the user enters the virtual space (see figures 5-8).

Regarding claim 3, Liles discloses wherein the data managed by the manager are set in accordance with information of the user, the information being at least one of living body information and variation of expressions (see col. 10, lines 1-32).

Regarding claim 4, Liles discloses further comprising a voice controller for controlling a tone of voices uttered from the avatar based on the data stored in the storage area (see col. 12, lines 34-49).

Regarding claim 5, Liles discloses manager manages the data on the feeling expressions based on a table in which types of feelings and levels thereof are associated with one another (see col. 13, lines 50-67).

Regarding claim 6, Liles discloses wherein the display controller controls a display including a motion picture of the avatar (see col. 14, lines 15-67).

Regarding claim 7, Liles discloses method for enabling a plurality of users to participate as respective avatars in a virtual space constructed on a network and to have conversations with other users, the method comprising the steps of managing data on feeling expressions of an avatar which correspond to a user's conditions; controlling storage of data on image displays of the avatar which correspond to the feeling expressions, and controlling the image displays of the avatar based on the storage of data on the image displays (see figures 1-9).

Regarding claim 8, Liles discloses further comprising the step of controlling the data on the feeling expressions of the avatar based on voices uttered by the avatar (see col. 15, lines 12-65).

As claims 9-15 are analyzed as previously discussed with respected to claims 1-8 above.

Response to Arguments

2. Applicant's arguments with respect to claims 1-15 have been considered but are moot in view of the new ground(s) of rejection.

Accordingly, the claimed invention as represented even amended in the claims does not represent a patentable distinction over the art of record.

Conclusion

3. The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicant's disclosure. (see PTO-892).

THIS ACTION IS MADE FINAL. Applicant is reminded of the extension of time policy as set forth in 37 CFR 1.136(a).

A shortened statutory period for reply to this final action is set to expire THREE MONTHS from the mailing date of this action. In the event a first reply is filed within TWO MONTHS of the mailing date of this final action and the advisory action is not mailed until after the end of the THREE-MONTH shortened statutory period, then the shortened statutory period will expire on the date the advisory action is mailed, and any extension fee pursuant to 37 CFR 1.136(a) will be calculated from the mailing date of the advisory action. In no event, however, will the statutory period for reply expire later than SIX MONTHS from the mailing date of this final action.
